

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A snap ring for applications requiring cleanliness has a novel blunted cross-sectional profile that reduces debris generation during installation of the snap ring. The snap ring is suitable for applications where a reduction in debris generation is desirable, such as to retain an actuator pivot bearing in information storage devices like magnetic hard disk drives.